

Fire Guts Antioch IGA Store Wed. a. m.

Fire gutted the Antioch IGA Foodliner at the corner of Routes 59 and 173 early Wednesday morning. The Antioch Fire Department was called to the scene at 3:50 a.m. Wednesday. The large plate glass front window blew out from the intense heat as a motorist passed, and he reported it to the police. Firemen fought the blaze until 6 a.m., and firemen were still sweeping water from the floor during the morning hours, after the blaze was extinguished. Fire Chief Tod Maplethorpe said the fire apparently started near a refrigeration unit in the back room. The flames were largely confined to this room, but smoke and heat from the fire poured through the front section, blackening the walls and damaging stock. Piles of groceries from the shelves lay on the floor after the flames were extinguished, knocked from the shelves by the force of the water from the firemen's hoses. Chief Maplethorpe said it was difficult to fight the fire because of the construction of the building. The store is of cement block construction, without windows other than the front display windows. Maplethorpe tentatively estimated the loss at $100,000. The building is owned by

Mrs. Helen Osmond. Smoke seeped into the building adjoining the IGA, occupied by the Antioch Discount Center. It had not been ascertained whether or not there was smoke damage to the stock at the Discount Store as we went to press. Gardner (Mal) Mallory is owner of the IGA Store. He could not be reached Wednesday morning to comment as to his future plans concerning the store.

Seek Solution to Sewer Hook-ups

Some hook-ups to the sewer system have not yet been made in Oakwood

Knolls, it was reported at Tuesday night's meeting of the village board, and some property owners have failed to respond to the numerous letters sent them.

The owner of seven pieces of property in the subdivision has made no response to the notifications and the board has not been able to contact him personally.

Village Attorney Edward Jacobs said the board's only recourse would be to sue those homeowners who have failed to connect to the sewers. Mayor Ray Toft instructed the attorney to investigate the best course of action and report at the next board meeting.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Ernest Westlund complained that traffic persisted in going the wrong way on the one-way street near his home on Elizabeth St. Parked cars block his garage, he said, during activities at St. Peter's Church.

Mayor Ray Toft suggested that Mr. Westlund sign a complaint against any motorists who violate the one-way ordinance, and turned the matter over to the street committee for a possible solution.

PARKING SPACE

Merchants are enthusiastic over the creation of a parking area behind the stores on the east side of Main St. Trustee Vern Barnstable reported and were willing to pay to have the area cleaned up. Leo J. Fox, he said, had been employed to clear the area.

SIDEWALKS

Work will start on replacing broken sidewalks next week, probably on Main St. Attorney Jacobs informed the board that under a bill signed recently by Governor Kerner the village may now impose a tax on sales-service occupations. The board approved (continued on page 3)

SOUVENIR COINS

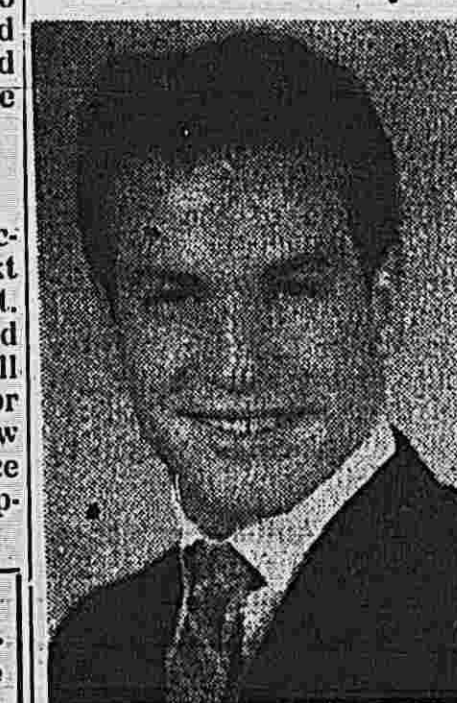

Souvenir coins of Antioch's Diamond Jubilee will be available Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Chamber of Commerce booth in the old Ford Garage at 839 Main St.

Happy Birthday

The climax of many weeks of preparation comes this week as Antioch celebrates the 75th year of its incorporation. Events of all kinds are scheduled for the final days of the week, starting with the Historical Pageant Thursday night and ending with the Lions Club picnic and the crowning of the Jaycees Beauty Queen.

Antioch will celebrate its Diamond Jubilee with the many events scheduled for the three-day celebration. Every organization has joined wholeheartedly in adding to the festivities, and businessmen and individuals have added their bit to the gala atmosphere.

When the celebrating is over, the town will be left with some lasting by-products of the event. The Jubilee has prompted the gathering together of some of the early history of the town, many facts remembered only by a few of the older generation. Long-forgotten pictures have come out of hiding, adding reality to the early history.

A village flag has been officially approved as a result of the Jubilee. Commemorative coins issued for the occasion will be treasured bits of Antioch's history many years hence. A plaque bearing the names of all the village presidents will be a daily reminder of the men who helped to build Antioch, and will help future historians who seek facts.

Above all, preparations for the Jubilee have brought the many organizations of the town together in a common effort. And enjoyment of the events of the Diamond Jubilee bring the people of the area together in neighborly celebration of the town's birthday, enhancing a spirit of good will that is always present but sometimes forgotten.

Courthouse Notebook

BY LOU DUKIN

Happy Diamond Jubilee to Antioch during its celebration of 75 years of incorporation as a village.

The Antioch area is and has been one of the most vital areas of Lake County contributing more than its share to the politics, economy, and the kind of history you don't always find in the official records and documents of an area.

Despite efforts of city booster groups and the influx of industry into the area Antioch remains essentially a resort area community, which is intended as a complement rather than condemnation because it has escaped the sameness and strait jacket restrictions of many communities which have lost their own personalities.

Politically Antioch, and its immediate environs, has a strong Republican tradition and can boast of its GOP regularity in spite of the best efforts of such staunch Democrats in the area as Charles J. Cernak, Mark Turner and Gov. Otto Kerner.

Few communities can claim three county legislative office holders at one time, but Antioch has County School Superintendent W. C. Petty, County Board Chairman Lloyd (Red) Murrie, and State Representative W. J. Murphy.

And not too long ago Antioch could claim the Sheriff, Charles Larson, as well.

Yes, you could almost say that politics was a major industry in the Antioch area, but the community has produced its share of sports over the years as well.

The old Antioch Palace was a mecca for fight fans for many years and the Channel Lake Pavilion of hallowed memory also produced some noteworthy battles although the "cards" were less formal than those at the Palace.

Veteran nimrods and anglers still tell wondrous tales of the action at Chuck Halting's, Ray Pregenzers, and Blarney Island, but not all the stories are related to hunting and fishing.

Horse fanciers once abounded in the Antioch area although it must be confessed that among the devotees of horsemanship the performance out of the starting gate, the drive in the stretch, and the payoff price, were much more important than conformation or personality.

Situated at the gateway to the Chain O' Lakes Antioch naturally became the headquarters for the thousands of Chicago area residents who fled the summer heat in the city for the cool, bracing air of the lakes region, but many of the visitors after arriving headed for shelter from the fresh air and sunshine.

They came looking for action, but not at the end of a fishing line.

For many Antioch residents "those were the good old days," and many still regret that changing conditions put the lid on the action-filled days of the past, but Antioch's present and future are being built on more solid and more permanent grounds.

The "bid spenders" of the happy days may be gone, but they have been replaced by home builders, business builders, community builders. While some of the oldsters sigh nostalgically for the swinging days of yesteryear when they gathered together at Weasel's or Lorenz's Country House, most will readily admit that today's Antioch is a better place in which to raise their families.

And so Antioch enters a new era with fond memories of the past, some impatience with the present, and high hopes for the future.

When traveling with children in the back seat of the car make sure all doors are closed securely. Above all, keep the children calm so they do not distract you from your important job behind the wheel.

As It Happens—

By Rep. William J. Murphy

Au Revoir—Not Good-Bye

The last roll call was made, the usual farewell speeches and goodbyes to old friends and new friends were all made in usual fashion as the General Assembly drew to a close with the clock stopped at twenty minutes to twelve on Friday, June 30th. The actual time was 8:35 a.m. as the bleary eyed and exhausted Legislators walked out of the Assembly Halls of the House and Senate in Springfield. Out of the ordinary, however, was the fact that the Legislature did not historically adjourn sine die but instead adjourned to a day certain, which is September 11, 1967. This means the Legislature is technically still in Session and with full power. In actuality it really doesn't mean too much. It is this writer's opinion that the Legislature will return in September, and immediately a new flood of Bills will be introduced including many that were defeated in this Session. These will include gun law Bills, Open Occupancy, Implied Consent, etc. The forces for open occupancy will immediately start a big debate and probably a filibuster again. After a couple days of speeches, a motion will be made to recess until January 1, 1969, and so for all practical purposes nothing has really changed.

Adjudging the Session.
Ed Nash, the knowledgeable and capable Legislative Reporter for the Waukegan News-Sun in Springfield, states, "No man's life, liberty or property is safe while the Legislature is in Session." Once upon a time in my years in public service for the people of this District, I would have taken offense at this statement and had a sharp rebuke for my friend, Mr. Nash. Now after fourteen years as part of the legislative scene, I regretfully have to say, "Isn't that the truth," and I say it with true regret and in all truthfulness.

When we have become so enmeshed in laws that we even pass Bills to say your drinking water has to be fluoridated—that you must submit to search by the police without a stated reason—that you must register with the police to own a gun—that you cannot even give your own girl friend a ride on your motorcycle, we have gone a long way down the road of regimentation and to me regimentation and freedom are not compatible.

The body of this Legislature was made up of about fifty per cent of newly elected Legislators and left over Blue Ribbon Legislators from the "at large election" of 1964. The predominance of "old timers" that could be counted on to kill the nonsense Bills and the "wild eyed" dreamer's Bills were a thing of yesterday. Over four thousand five hundred bills were passed into the Legislative Hopper—and with effort we killed many of the extreme Bills, the Liberal new conception of regimentation—but we were not able to kill them all. So the silk threads of regimentation gain in thickness around the arms of all of us and some more of our liberties and freedoms left—no more to return.

Though the "old guard" tried well and did in fact slash around one hundred and twenty million from the budget, the new liberals were passing Bill after Bill totaling millions and millions to supply us with everything from fluoridated water to filtered air, to new lakes and playgrounds, streams without mud bottoms, deluxe administration buildings for all Universities, institutions and yes, even for the Legislature. Thank the Lord, many of these schemes still have to pass the Governor's veto, and I hope he will use his power of veto sharply and often.

The Legislature is no longer representing the people, they are now running the people.

A Thank You
I express my sincere thanks to the Antioch News, the Zion-Benton News, the Lake Villa Township News and the North Chicago Tribune for their excellent cooperation in supplying me the space to write this column of "As It Happens" throughout this Legislative session.

If I find more to write about in the coming weeks, I may continue a while to keep this column going, if I don't, I again say thanks to all of you fine people for your great response and thanks again to these weekly papers for their courtesy and cooperation.

—To get a glimpse of Miss Illinois, Kathryn Myers, while she's here to help us celebrate!

—To watch the sky diving teams as they land on Sequoia Terrace Saturday.

Further Adventures Of Kenneth Kasel

Or Why Flight Instructors Age Rapidly

Our readers will remember Ken Kasel, who recently completed a tour of duty in Viet Nam. We interviewed Ken on his return to Antioch, and the story appeared in the Antioch News three weeks ago. He wrote the following letter from flight school:

July 28, 1967

After being turned away from the shelter of Uncle Sam's wing I found I would have to make my own way in the cold cruel world. As I have come to acquire a great dislike for work, I decided I'd try school. Professional student didn't appeal to me either, so I decided I'd try about 5 or 6 months of flight school. With the help of a few outside supporters I managed to obtain enough federal reserve notes to get into a flight school in Minden, Nebraska. And so our story begins—

My flight instructor informed me one early morning that I missed a check ride with the chief pilot. He said a notice was on the board and asked if I saw it. I replied "No," because I didn't read the bulletin board. This cleared me. I did check the board closely that day and found that I had a check ride that day.

I was at the airfield early so as to compensate for missing the last ride. I greeted the chief and said, "My name's Kasel, I'm sorry I missed the check ride the other day." He replied, "I'm the chief pilot, I'm sorry you made this one." I don't know why he said that.

After preflighting the aircraft the chief and I were on our merry way out to the runway. I told the chief he looked like Charlie Brown. He said, "Why is that?" I said, "Because you have a bald head and when I told you who I was you said 'Oh good grief.' He replied, 'Hmpf!'

The one-filthy was a little slow to respond so I had to bounce it twice to get off the runway. When we got to the end of the runway he asked how high we were. I said, "I don't know how high you are but I haven't had a drink in two days." He looked at the altimeter to find out how high we were but I explained to him it wasn't correct because I forgot to set it before take off. This guy could really make some silly faces.

We weren't in the air more than a few minutes and he wanted to land already. What a spoil sport. I went through all my pretending procedures and headed for the runway. I wasn't more than 50 feet from the runway when the old coddler yells, "Pull up, you idiot, you're on the wrong runway." Again—a funny face followed. This clown had me shook up with his nonsense so bad that when I finally found a strip he liked I missed it and overshot the whole thing. The second approach was much better and I finally landed on the third.

We shut down and he told me to tie down the plane and he'd talk to me inside. This guy was so forgetful that just as I walked in the door he looked at one of his comrades and said, "Let's go have a cup of coffee."

When I saw my flight instructor the next day I said, "That 'old' man is crazy." He replied, "Old man? He's only 32." He looked at least 50. His old lady must really treat him bad.

Oops, I checked my watch and I'm late for school. I'm supposed to give a two hour lecture on aviation safety.

Ken Kasel
P. S. That smiling face on the front page of the newspaper was not yours truly. (Editor's note) Unfortunately, Ken's picture got confused with another local soldier.

Your Congressman Reports....

By Cong. Robert McClory

All of our national holidays (except Christmas and New Year's Day) may fall on Monday under a bill sponsored by this Member of Congress.

The measure (H.R. 11679), similar to one introduced in the last session of the Congress, will have a full-dress hearing on August 16th and 17th before a House Judiciary Subcommittee on which this member serves as the ranking Republican.

Changing our national holidays to convenient Mondays is intended to provide our citizens with 6 three-day holiday weekends. These 6 new holidays and their present counterparts are as follows:

1. President's Day (third Monday in February), instead of Washington's Birthday (February 22nd).

2. Memorial Day (last Monday in May), instead of May 30th.

3. Independence Day (first Monday in July), instead of July 4th.

4. Labor Day (first Monday in September), no change.

5. Veterans' Day (last Monday in October), instead of November 11th.

6. Thanksgiving Day (4th Monday in November), instead of fourth Thursday in November.

Much of the sentimental and historic interest in retaining our present schedule of holidays vanishes when it is noted that (a) George Washington actually was born on February 11th, Gregorian calendar, adopted some years later, advanced the date to February 22nd; (b) Memorial Day has been celebrated on April 25, 26 and June 9, (as well as May 30th); (c) the Declaration of Independence was adopted on July 2nd; and the parchment copy was signed by 50 of the 56 signers on July 19th. Also there are valid and logical reasons for designating appropriate Mondays for observance of the other holidays.

But the overwhelming support for uniform Monday holidays is to enable families to enjoy 6 three-day vacations throughout the year, with all the educational, cultural and recreational values that will result.

In a recent survey conducted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, 85 per cent of those who responded were in favor of this change. Only 14 per cent were opposed, with 1 per cent expressing no opinion. In the poll recently completed of 12th District residents (Lake and McHenry Counties and Barrington and Hanover Township, in Cook County), the vote was better than two-to-one in favor of observing Memorial Day and Independence Day on Mondays. Other recent polls have confirmed this favorable support for the change.

The most frequently voiced objection to uniform Monday holidays is that many more traffic deaths would occur on such long weekends. However, statistics of the National Safety Council reveal that the danger rate on single midweek holidays is substantially higher than on any single day of a three-day holiday weekend.

Management officials look to better production and less absenteeism if the Monday holiday plan is adopted. Most employees favor the prospect of three-day vacations with their families. Those engaged in resort and travel businesses are so excited about increased business prospects that they are quite exuberant in their support of the measure.

Canada has observed the Queen's birthday for many years on the Monday nearest May 24. Thanksgiving Day in Canada is also celebrated on the second Monday in October. The Canadians are enthusiastic in their support of the arrangement. England, New Zealand and some other countries have adopted the uniform Monday holiday plan with corresponding approval.

Howlett Names Regan To Public Audit Group

Francis A. Regan, a certified public accountant and former FBI agent, has been appointed by Michael J. Howlett, state Auditor of Public Accounts, as Chairman of the new Public Moneys Advisory Board.

The Board, to be composed of nine public officials, business leaders and accountants, will help Howlett enforce the new Public Moneys Accounting Law, House Bill 588, just passed in the 75th General Assembly.

The new law extends to all local governments which appropriate more than $100,000 a year the auditing requirements which already were mandatory upon municipalities, school districts and counties under earlier legislation.

Regan lives with his wife and five children at 7641

Coach-Road, Palos Heights, Illinois. His office is at 105 West Adams Street, Chicago.

He attended Marquette University and was graduated in 1939 from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service. He served as a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1940 to 1951, when he resigned to enter the public accounting field. He is President of the Society of Former Special Agents of the FBI, which has 5,000 members active in business, industry and government in 40 countries.

"We will assemble the rest of the advisory board as rapidly as possible," said Howlett. "With expert assistance from dedicated talent, willing to serve without pay, we will make Illinois the best audited state in the union."

the most worried about the pending legislation are the calendar manufacturers. They want to receive sufficient advance notice of any change so that they can designate our national holidays accurately on the new calendars and then proceed to plan their own long weekend holidays.

The Panama Canal used to be regarded as American as apple pie and baseball. But, no more. Soon the Panama Canal may become as Panamanian as the Suez Canal is, (or was until recently), Egyptian.

The French government had attempted to build a canal linking the Atlantic—and had failed. Then in 1903, Panama, anxious for the United States to construct the canal, broke away from the Republic of Colombia; founded its own republic and signed a treaty with the United States. The treaty ceded to this country a 10-mile wide strip or isthmus "in perpetuity"—in return for which the United States guaranteed annual payments for the Canal revenues—and agreed to defend Panama against attack.

The early American efforts were hampered by numerous failures until President Theodore Roosevelt commissioned George W. Goethals of the Army, Corps of Engineers (and his quartermaster—now retired General—Robert E. Wood of Lake Forest) to undertake an aggressive completion of the Canal. As a result of this great engineering achievement and the subsequent able administration of the Canal and the Canal Zone, untold benefits have redounded to the entire world.

What motivated a few dissident Panamanian citizens who invaded the Canal Zone and burned an American flag in 1964 has never been explained. At any rate, that flag-burning incident does not seem to have been of such a character as to warrant the virtual abandonment of the Panama Canal. Originally, the Panamanians had invested some of their capital and little of their labor in the construction of this great engineering phenomenon. The capital (little of which has been repaid) was from the United States. Most of the labor used in the construction of the Canal was imported from the West Indies and many of the present 11,000 Canal Zone employees are descendants of these West Indies emigres.

Under pressure from the Panamanian Government, the United States negotiated a revised treaty in 1955 and at that time gave up an estimated $25 million of property. It is reported that the Panamanians have permitted this investment to be virtually destroyed including a hotel, hospital, and school. The individual houses involved in this transfer are reported to have been gutted and are totally unfit for habitation today.

The treaty that has now been negotiated and which the President proposes to sign in August recognizes Panama's sovereignty over all U. S. property in the Canal Zone. In place of its present control of the canal, the United States would surrender control to a joint board composed of 7 Americans and 6 Panamanians. Annual payments to the Republic of Panama would be increased from 2 million dollars to more than $20

WHY NOT BE A SQUARE?

WHAT IS A SQUARE? We so often hear the younger generation, particularly the teen agers, refer to a well-mannered and well behaved young person as being a "Square." A square in the writer's understanding is a perfect object with equal straight lines and right angles. What is wrong with having straight lines and right angles?

The dictionary defines a square also as a "rule, standard, or principle." Also being "on the square" as "in the open, fair manner; honestly; honorably;—'out of square' as 'not regular or in order; incorrectly.'"

From these correct definitions—"Being a square" or "on the square" is commendable and something to be proud of rather than to be ashamed of.

If we would all be "squares" or "on the square" what a better world this would be.

million. Fees for use of the canal would be increased substantially in the hope of paying this larger annual sum to Panama.

Congresswoman Leona Sullivan of Missouri, Chairman of the Subcommittee on the Panama Canal, has been the principal spokesman in the House of Representatives endeavoring to alert the Congress and the Nation to the dangers of a U. S. surrender of control over the Canal and Canal Zone. Congresswoman Sullivan and many others who have followed the Panama Canal dispute doubt that the new treaty will satisfy the dissident Panamanian elements, or that the new joint board will improve conditions in Panama or the Canal Zone. The experience with appeasement has been that concessions merely whet the appetite for more concessions and more power. This result seems almost inevitable in the Panama Canal dispute.

The Panama Canal has been operated with great efficiency by the United States. Constant maintenance and improvements have enabled it to keep pace with the expansion in world shipping. It is expected that improvements would end and maintenance would be at a minimum if the Republic of Panama should take control.

If the Panamanians acquire complete control of the present canal, the prospect of a second canal connecting the Atlantic and the Pacific, to be located either in Nicaragua or Colombia, is considered a distinct possibility. If this should occur, of course, the entire existing U. S. investment will go down the drain and additional billions of American dollars will be spent in establishing the new canal.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs is conducting hearings this week on the proposed treaty affecting the Panama Canal. However, the Members of the U. S. House of Representatives will have no authority over the proposed treaty. Under the constitution, treaties must be ratified by a two-thirds vote of the Members of the Senate. Accordingly, the U. S. Senate alone will ratify or refuse to ratify the proposed new treaty with Panama. There are many valid reasons why ratification by the Senate should be withheld.

1890's Display At Library

The Antioch Township Library is featuring a display of various items of interest from former days in connection with Antioch's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Here are some of the items you can view on a visit to the library: Delinquent Magazines of the 1890's (a Journal of fashion, culture and Fine Arts); Mme. Demorest Monthly of 1890, a Fashion Journal; pictures of the Grade School Class of about 1895, a Methodist Church group, Antioch's amateur Brass Band, Main St. in 1888, and many others.

A large Bible, published in 1892 for the 1492 Jubilee year in commemoration of the discovery of America, given to the Library by Mrs. Elmer Brook. This is a remarkable Bible with a complete concordance, beautiful illustrations, a section on old coins, etc. Mrs. Brook also gave some other interesting old books to the library.

Some other old books on display: "The Compendium of Cooking," 1890; National Reader, 1883; Little Lord Fauntleroy, 1889, and others.

Heart Fund Campaign Tops Last Year's Sum

Residents of Antioch Township contributed $352 to the 1966-67 Heart Fund campaign of the Chicago Heart Association.

These contributions were part of the $54,988 collected by the volunteers in Lake County, $1,893 more than last year. Altogether more than $1,325,091 was raised in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties, the three served by the Heart Association.

Mrs. Stephanie Sulthinn,

214 W. Sheridan Place, Lake Bluff, Chairman of Lake County, said that the money raised in the three county area will be used by the voluntary health agency for the research, education and community programs aimed at lowering the deaths from heart and blood vessel diseases, the number one killers in the United States.

Mrs. Sulthinn said the excellent showing of the Antioch Township was directly attributable to the volunteers who headed the 1966-67 campaign here. Outstanding leader in the area was Mrs. Barbara Slightam, Antioch.

Mrs. Sulthinn said she was extremely happy with the response shown by the residents of Lake County.

This indicates that the residents realize the seriousness of cardiovascular diseases. It is only through their enlightened support that those at the Chicago Heart Association can continue their fight against these dread diseases which cause more than 54 per cent of the deaths in the country—almost one million last year.

In Lake County, heart disease in 1965 was responsible for 1,328 of the county's 2,359 deaths, or 56.2%.

Mrs. Slightam's home address is Rt. 1, Box 569, Antioch, Ill. 60002.

Jubilee Celebration Rouses Memories

The celebration of Antioch's Diamond Jubilee has stirred memories of former days in Antioch residents, even those who have moved to homes in other towns.

The following letter from chairman of the Diamond Jubilee:

July 27, 1967

DeKalb, Illinois

Dear Mr. Brook,

Enclosed is my check for $2.25. Will you please send me an Antioch commemorative coin? After postage is taken out, use the rest for some Cool Ade or soup for the boys overseas. I think Antioch is doing a wonderful thing for our service boys.

I'm very proud of Antioch.

I grew up in Antioch, and taught school there. Also my grandfather, Eli Kaspar Willett and Dr. H. E. Spafford's father were first settlers along with Charlie and Harry Smith families; so you see I have an interest in the old home town. When we were kids in high school our crowd got out and campaigned for a "shed" in which to play basket ball. The only place we had was the school grounds. Results of our uproar? The new Township High School in 1915; and our class of '17 chose the colors of battleship gray and cherry red for the school.

Best wishes for a very successful celebration.

Yours truly,

Jennie (Willett) Ziegler

(Mrs. Frank A.)

Recently it has grown tremendously. Old landmarks are going one by one. I used to eat green apples from a tree where the new bank now stands on Lake Street, just across from Grandpa Willett's old home on Spafford Street; and I lived about one-half block south of there for many years.

I'd like very much to come to the celebration, but I can't walk yet. I'll just have to read about it in the Antioch News. My brother Frank Harry (Hy) Willett lives next door to the Brook's house on Lake Street.

Best wishes for a very successful celebration.

Yours truly,

Jennie (Willett) Ziegler

(Mrs. Frank A.)

Sparkling Comedy At PM&L Theatre

For an evening of fun and laughter be sure to take your friends along to "Take Me Along" at the air conditioned PM&L Theatre this weekend.

Performances are at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, August 4, 5, and 6. Tickets are available by calling 395-3613 for reservations or by purchasing them at the General Store, 891 Main St., or at the box office.

Audiences from last week's performances seemed to especially enjoy Don Beveroth as Nat Miller, editor of the hometown paper, the Centerville Globe. He is the head of a typical family whose sixteen year old son is all of a sudden growing up. Don brings the house down with his rendition of "Slaying Young."

Bob Thomley as Sid has a difficult role to perform as a hoisterous, fun loving, sometimes inebrated man who hasn't quite been able to grow up and face his responsibilities in spite of his years. His solo of "Sid Ol' Kid" is a rousing entrance and "My Little Green Snake" is just plain funny.

Sue Bushnell as Lily has the sympathy of all viewers as she struggles with the decision of whether to accept Sid as he is and marry him after these many years of courting or whether to reject him again as before. Sue's lovely soprano voice will be heard singing "We're Home", "Promise Me a Rose" and in the duets with Sid, "I Get Embarrassed" and "But Yours."

And then there is Richard, played by Lloyd Pedersen, who is the son who is so terribly in love with Muriel, played by Carol Brandy. He is so desperately trying to grow up, and Lloyd convincingly shows the audience that even back in the 1900's no one seemed to understand the teenager at times; and that after all, problems of the young weren't so different than they are today. Lloyd and Carol are a joy to watch both dancing and singing. "I Would Die" and "Nine O'Clock."

Fran Walpole as Essie, Mary Palaske as the little sister and Kevin Walpole as the little brother round out the Miller family, and Fran is a most convincing mother.

as well she should be, being a mother of seven in real life. Other supporting actors are Lonnie Krotz, Steve Strang, and Joan Mattis, as well as 22 chorus members.

Steve Krotz is the director of this production. Betty Beveroth is musical director, and Pat Agonith is choreographic advisor. Al Murphy plays organ and Al Murphy and Dave Bushnell play piano.

Debbie Wins A Bike

Deborah Dodge is the third youngster to join the happy winners of bicycles in the Antioch News Win A Bike contest.

Debbie picked up her bike at V & S Hardware after selling twelve subscriptions to the Antioch News. She chose the Renegade, a popular bike with the young set.

Debbie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dodge, 581 1/2 Main St., Antioch, sold the subscriptions in about a week. Now she's cheering on her sister, Jackie, who came in Monday to sign up for the contest. After seeing Debbie's bike, Jackie just had to have one, too.

Any youngster interested in earning a bike can do so by selling twelve new subscriptions to The Antioch News. Just stop in at the office on Victoria St. and get a copy of the rules, and go to work.

Naval Officers Retires Position

A former Commanding Officer of the Navy Electronics Supply Office, Great Lakes, Rear Admiral Herschel J. Goldberg, Supply Corps, U. S. N., is retiring from the Navy after 32 years of commissioned service.

Admiral Goldberg was relieved as Commander, Naval Supply Systems Command, by Rear Admiral Bernhard H. Bieri, Jr., SC, USN on July 31. Change of command ceremonies were held at the historic Washington Navy Yard, Washington, D. C.

Admiral Goldberg was in command of the Navy ESO, Great Lakes, from January 1957 to December 1959. At that time, he was responsible for inventory management of the Navy's 425 million dollar stock of electronic repair parts used in maintaining conventional shipboard ordnance, guided missile systems, command-control systems, communications, training devices and other Navy electronics systems.

In April 1965, Admiral Goldberg was appointed Chief of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts and paymaster General of the Navy. The Bureau was reorganized in May 1966 into the Naval Supply Systems Command, at which time he became its Commander. On October 13, 1966, he was appointed by the Secretary of the Navy to be the first Chief of Supply Corps.

As Commander of the Naval Supply Systems Command, Admiral Goldberg has been responsible for the material supply support of all Navy ships and shore facilities and was responsible for the assignment of all Navy Supply Corps officers.

Before his appointment as Chief of the Bureau, Admiral Goldberg served for three years as its Deputy Chief, and was awarded the Legion of Merit for outstanding service in that position. The Legion of Merit citation noted the contribution he made to the development of

Prince of Peace Church

On Thursday, July 20, a meeting was held in the Prince of Peace parish hall to discuss the organization of a school board to assist in the direction of the school. Father Clark, the assistant superintendent of schools in the Archdiocese, was present to explain the structure of the school board which could be formed in the parish. It was the mutual desire of Father David Lynch, pastor, Sr. Clare Antonette, principal, and the members of the parish who were present at the meeting that a school board be established.

Those who were unable to attend, yet have an interest in the issue, may like to know that for the best start possible, the board will be appointed initially by Father Lynch.

Father Lynch, assisted by Lester Hamlin, John Schuler and Jack Halvey, will make the selection of the seven members for the school board from the 17 nominees.

The meeting also resulted in the selection of a committee to provide information to parishioners on a parish council. Another meeting will be held on Monday, August 14 at 8 p.m. to discuss the issue. All members of the parish should attend this meeting.

Altar and Rosary Society

The main business discussed at the July meeting of the Prince of Peace Altar and Rosary Sodality meeting was the opening up of a separate savings account, other than the one used to purchase items needed. The account would be opened with $500 and a likely amount would be added every year. That money would earn interest, and would be there if the time ever came when the Sodality didn't have enough money in their treasury to purchase items for the altar.

The Sodality will not hold an August meeting, due to so many people on vacation. Studying in Europe

Holstein Bull Is Recognized

Silver Medal Production Sire recognition Sire recognition has come to a Registered Holstein bull owned by Ravenglen Farm, Antioch, and Shadel Farm, Janesville, Wis., reports the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. Silver Medal designation is based on the demonstrated productive ability of the bull's registered daughters on official test, as compared with that of their dams and the production level of the entire Holstein breed.

Ravenglen Admiral Triune 1370471 (EX), is now among the comparatively few sires to be so honored in the history of breed improvement work of the Holstein Association.

Advanced registry, Herd Improvement Registry, or Dairy Herd Improvement Registry testing records are used in at least 10 pairs of daughter-dam comparisons in calculating the sire's recognition. The group of daughters must have at least 15 production records from the three official testing programs, as supervised by state agricultural colleges.

All records of both daughters and dams are converted to the commonly accepted two milkings per day, 305-day mature equivalent basis for comparison purposes in Silver Medal Production recognition.

On this basis, Ravenglen Admiral Triune's 18 daughters compiled an official production average of 15,380 lbs. of milk and 596 lbs. of butterfat.

Other girls from the area flew by jet to Switzerland on July 11. They have two teacher chaperones for the ten girls. Their tour will end up in England, and they should be home around August 10. Amy is the daughter of Frank and Helen Mindak, 105 N. Hawthorne Dr., Lindenhurst. She attends Antioch Community High School.

Barbara Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Warchol, 512 S. Deerpath Dr., Lindenhurst, and Gerald John Neophitos of Lake Zurich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Stamer of Chicago, plan an August 12 wedding at Prince of Peace Church.

Sen. Percy Introduces Anti-Inflation Bill

WASHINGTON — Sen. Charles H. Percy (R-Ill.) has introduced a package of Social Security bills which he said would provide older Americans with "protection against inflation and loss of purchasing power."

"The continuing fight for a stable dollar is the greatest single step our government can take on behalf of all our citizens, and particularly our older citizens," Percy said in remarks on the floor of the Senate.

Percy said the package would "begin to remedy some of the present inequities in the Social Security system." He introduced bills which would:

—eliminate the present $1,500 limitation and permit Social Security recipients to earn up to $2,400 a year;

—permit the surviving spouse of a Social Security recipient to receive 100 percent of the Social Security benefits;

—provide full Social Security benefits to totally disabled widows, regardless of age.

Last month Percy cosponsored a bill to establish an automatic cost of living increase for Social Security beneficiaries. It would automatically increase Social Security benefits whenever the consumer price index rose 3 percent or more. "When great American companies such as Swift, Armour, Dow Chemical, American Motors, Ford, Chrysler, G. M., Bendix and Boeing, to name only a few, can provide contract cost of living increases to their employees who are holding steady jobs and are already eligible for merit increases, how can we ask our senior citizens to bear the harsh cost, without help, of inflation?"

"While Medicare and other health and welfare legislation have been helpful to the elderly, the major area of federal concern on behalf of the group is the maintenance of

Nitrogen Necessary To High Grain Yields

Nitrogen in the soil is essential for high grain yields, for increased vegetative growth, and is credited with improving soil structure, too.

According to Curtis Overdahl, extension soils specialist at University of Minnesota, plants need nitrogen in greater quantities than any other nutrient used from the soil.

In statements reviewed by National Plant Food Institute, he adds that underestimating nitrogen fertilizer needs is more costly than overestimating. Excess nitrogen usually is better than too little since any build-up in the stalk either goes back into the soil for use next year, or produces high protein feed if the crop is used as silage. Too little cuts potential yields and profits.

Efficient, profitable crop production demands that adequate levels of all plant nutrients be available in the soil.

"Grandpa" Bill Story Remembers Early Days

By Jacqueline Horton

Ninety-five years of Antioch history can be personified in William A. Story—Antioch's eldest Senior Citizen.

Grandpa Bill will observe his 96th birthday this month. The majority of his years have been lived in or near Antioch, and he has seen much of the community's growth, changes and citizenry come to pass.

Actually, the Story name represents an even longer span of the town's history. Family ancestors were among the earliest to settle this area shortly after the Grand Treaty of 1833, ceding the Indian lands of northeastern Illinois to the U. S. Government, opening what is now Lake County to white man's settlement.

William A. Story and wife Isabella came from New York state in 1842 when their son Jerome was about 3 years old. Traveling by the Great Lakes, they landed at the tiny, rough settlement of Southport, now the city of Kenosha. Conditions of that time left a bit to be desired in the way of accommodations, as the passengers and crew were forced to wade the last some yards of disembarkation.

The family found its way to Rock Lake, Wisconsin, just a little distance northwest of Antioch, and built a log cabin, where they remained until 1844. They then homesteaded a tract of land on the east side of an old Indian hunting trail, now called Deep Lake Road, east of Antioch town. The family log cabin was erected on the present site of the old Berkel farmhouse, and consisted of one room approximately 12 x 20 with a cook lean-to attached. Glass and metal hardware being scarce items in those days, the rough hewn planks which protected the two small windows, and the doorway were secured with heavy leather strap hinges.

To help ward off the bitter cold of Illinois winters, hand adzed planking was laid over the earth as a flooring. But with the heat of the fires in the field-stone-hearth, these green-wood slabs had a tendency to gradually curve up, so that, for at least several springtimes, the annual chore of "turning the floor" was willingly performed to rid the household of this rather disconcerting situation.

The Story family in 1852 again took up with the general westward trend of the country, joining the gold rush to California. After some adventurous times there, they returned about 1859 to take up farming again in the Antioch neighborhood, purchasing 80 acres on the south side of State Line Road, out east from town. Jerome Story died in 1918, at 77 years of age, and with his wife, Lydia, is buried at the old Hickory cemetery.

Young Bill's boyhood days were filled with the endless routine chores of old time dairy and crop farming. He attended the little one-room frame Johnson School, located for many years on the southeast corner of Deep Lake Road and North Avenue, (State Line Road.) Then when he was about fourteen, the family moved into Antioch town and he went for several years to the town school, another one-room frame building which stood on the site now occupied by the two-story yellow brick structure at the intersection of Main and Depot Streets. Erected in 1892, this brick schoolhouse observed its 75th year in conjunction with Antioch's Diamond Jubilee of incorporation.

Bill well recalls that early school house, with its hard plank benches and scarred desks, boys' and girls' separate entrances and coat-rooms, and a great black pot-bellied wood stove in the back of the room which sported a large rusty stove pipe that ran overhead the full length of the class room to the chimney at the other end. It was a joyous day of vacation for the school children when the sooty pipe had to be dismantled for its annual spring cleaning by several volunteer townsmen.

And of course there was the town pump in the middle of the intersection in front of the school house. Many a farm wagon team, buggy, horse and cart pony was halted to drink thirstily from the old wooden trough by this pump. Many a school child quenched his thirst here too, after a lively game of "Run-Sheep-Run, King of the Hill, Blind Man's Bluff, Hop-Scotch and Jumping rope. Of course, when the pump went dry during hot weather as invariably it did, the children then would have to seek a dipper of water from a neighbor's house. "There were no iced, chrome drinking fountains then!" Grandpa Bill would remind you.

And the school "rest-rooms" were out back at the end of well-worn paths along a high board fence which separated the boys' privy from that of the girls' . . . No tiled and enameled and chromed school washrooms in those days!

Bill Story well remembers the year his family moved into town—1885—when the Wisconsin Central Railroad, now the Soo Line, was built through Antioch . . . with the crews of men and their teams of big sweating horses wrestling with the slip-scrappers and wheel-scrappers to build up the earthen road bed along the right-of-way. They would straddle new wood ties ahead of the last laid section of track, then the flat car loaded with the heavy, shiny new iron rails would be moved up to the very end for the men to lift off two more sections, and with mallets spike them into place. So the track was laid, lengthening like two shining eels miraculously extending themselves.

Bill married Maud Irene Harrison in 1891 at Salem, Wisconsin. They made their home on the family farm for a number of years, during which, he recalls, many a trip was made over the dirt roads with team and wagon to Walter Carey's mill on the Fox River in Wilmet, to have a load of corn or barley ground for feed. If the start was early enough in the morning, they could figure to get back to the farm before supper hour and evening chores, even when forced to wait their turn at the mill on a busy day. On some occasions, however, the weather would turn stormy and necessitate a stay overnight at the old Hegeman Hotel where they could find a meal and lodging, and shelter for the team in the back yard shed, for 25c. This same early hotel is the popular "Stage Stop Inn" of Wilmet, today.

Before the advent of the railroad, Antioch and its nearby cool, sparkling lakes had become a well-attended vacation area for Chicagoans seeking relief from summertime heat, noise and dirt of the city. And with the new train offering a means of mass transportation, Antioch's economy boomed as thousands flocked out to the many fine lakeside resorts for pleasure and relaxation. But, in the long winter months, things were drastically different. Except for the daily chores of those folks on farms, or the merchants of town stores, there was scant opportunity for earning wages. About the only chance for such was the job of cutting and hauling ice from the lakes to storage, for the summertime market.

Along with many other Antioch menfolk, Bill Story worked his $1.25 per day hauling ice for one or the other of several parties, of whom the Merchant's Ice Co., Esche Bros. & Rabe, and also Williams Bros. of Antioch, were well known. The latter usually cut their ice from Cross Lake, with ten to twelve teams and wagons making a shuttle train from the house located behind the old King's Drug Store in town. In the earlier years, horses were used to force-cut the ice, then later, power driven saws and chain runs were brought into use. Sometimes as many as several hundred men would be employed for cutting and hauling, all bundled heavily against the wintry temperatures and frozen commodity they were handling.

Generally 22 inch square blocks of ice were cut, their thickness depending upon the coldness of the weather, and sometimes these were doubled to 22 x 44. And Bill recalls rather grimly the 24" thick ice they cut off for Oetting's ice house up by Sylvan Woods one severe winter, and what "a helluva time" they had loading the giant blocks into the ice house. . . . No electric home freezers, either, those days!

There was also the man-sized job of "switcher" inside the ice house, where the big frozen cakes had to be pulled up from the chain conveyor and stacked in tight rows to the very collar-beams, when the whole lot was usually covered with cut slough grass.

Bill remained on the farm until 1918 when his father died. World War I called his sons into service and the farm was sold and he moved into town, never to farm again. The ensuing years he worked at a variety of occupations—in as many places. Upon retirement he made his home with a daughter, and occasionally comes to Antioch to visit with his son, Ellis.

He enjoys comparatively good health, continues to smoke cigarettes and a frequent cigar. Very much alert and interested in current events, Grandpa Bill also possesses an active sense of humor as is evidenced in many of his wry observations, of today's goings-on. When asked his opinion of today's affairs in the community, he paused a bit then shook his head; "I think they're spending an awful lot of money these days, but then, they're spending money all over, for that matter. I don't see how a family man can manage too easy, these days!"

This, from a man who has lived those years of $1.25 per day sweat-it-through jobs. Viva Grandpa Bill!

And Happy Birthday! Call 395-4111 for free ad.

Couple Selected by PMA President

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Phingsten, 9105 Ridgely Rd., Crystal Lake, Ill., have been selected as the 1967 outstanding young dairy couple of district 6, Pure Milk Association, it was announced by Avery A. Vose, Rt. 2, Antioch, president of PMA and the district's representative on the PMA board of directors.

PMA district 6 is made up of well over 600 dairy farm members, mainly in Lake and McHenry counties, but with others in Boone, Cook and Kane counties, Ill., and Kenosha and Walworth counties, Wis. It is one of 18 PMA districts in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana. All of these districts are selecting a couple to compete for the title of outstanding young dairy couple of Pure Milk Association.

Gas Taxes Rise Again

The increase in the Illinois gasoline tax from 5 to 6 cents a gallon, effective August 1, means that total taxes on gasoline here will amount to nearly 11 1/2 cents a gallon—or 46% of the retail price in many parts of the state.

The Illinois Oil Council noted that in addition to the state tax, Illinois motorists pay a 4 cent-a-gallon federal tax, and nearly 1 1/2 cents a gallon in the 5% state and local sales tax on gasoline purchases. The sales tax went up from four per cent on July 1.

"The sales tax is levied on the price of gasoline including the federal tax, which means that Illinois motorists literally are paying a tax on a tax," Jesse H. Higgins, executive director of the Council pointed out.

The average retail price of gasoline in Illinois, excluding taxes, is about 25 cents a gallon, or less than it was 45 years ago, Higgins said. He added that in 1966 state gasoline taxes paid by Illinois motorists amounted to more than $187 million.

Commission Warns Light-less Drivers

To see and be seen, a vehicle must be properly equipped with lights. The Lake County Safety Commission reminds motorists that Illinois law requires: Two head lamps (one for motor cycles) visible for at least 500 feet. At least one red tail light visible 500 feet. A license plate light, bright enough for numbers to be visible 50 feet. Parking lights are required, front and back, on any vehicle standing between sunset and sunrise. Projecting loads extending more than 4 feet to the rear of a vehicle, must display a red light during periods of poor visibility or darkness.

Red lights visible from the front are prohibited. Parking lights may not be used while vehicle is being driven on street or highway. Flashing or moving lights, except turn signals or hazard indicators are prohibited except for special vehicles. Headlights must be dimmed at least 350 feet before meeting or overtaking another vehicle. Lights protect you and others. Make sure your lights meet the legal requirements, and use them.

Cottage cheese is perishable and needs the same care as fresh milk. It should be used shortly after it is purchased. The fresher the better is the rule for cottage cheese. This is just the opposite of most all other cheeses.

Championship Race Set For Sunday Night

Waukegan Speedway will host a modified stock car mid season championship races this Sunday night with a 50 lap feature event. There will be no increase in admission prices for these special events.

The top area drivers will meet at Waukegan Sunday for the big race. With the top pilots all together at Waukegan, only, great modified stock car racing is assured.

Leading the field of entrants will be Billy "The Bullet" Bohn, Roger Von Otto, Whitey Harris and John Reimer. Chuck Uttech, Fran and Homer Ansell, John Martin, Claude Potter, Harold Wade, Al Schill and Tom Anderson will also be in the running. All of these drivers have scored with at least one feature win at area tracks this season.

Double championship points will be at stake in all of Sunday's modified races. The Hobby Stocks will also see action. Time trials are at 7 p.m. with the first race at 8 o'clock.

Burgan Saturday Night Winner

The "old-master" Dennis Burgan made a sizeable dent in Jim Cossman's late model point lead Saturday night by winning the 50 lap midseason championship race at the Waukegan Speedway. Cossman finished seventh.

Any slip by Burgan and three drivers were breathing on his back bumper to take over the lead. Al Gutche was a very close second at the finish line. Bill Ballard was right on Gutche's back bumper for the entire last half of the race and Mike Wolff closed in during the final laps to claim fourth.

Cossman and Ballard collided on the 23rd circuit and Jim spun out losing over a lap. Cossman returned and in trying to unlasp himself on the 32nd lap, blew an oil line and stalled on the track. His car, eliminated, Cossman drove Jerry Learsch's car after the restart.

In the late stages of the race Bush, Evans, Seyl and Robis all dropped out of the picture, while Mike Wolff came forward.

Some fast pit work by the crews on Burgan's, Gutche's and Ralph Sinnen's stock cars put these three top runners back in the races after all three dropped out of the unlimited qualification runs early. Burgan experienced fuel problems and missed the fast heat and started fifth in the feature. Gutche replaced a transmission in near record time, while Sinnen rebuilt the car once after a tangle with the wall only to crash again in the consolation as he was about to take over the lead.

The worst accident of the evening came in the hobby stock feature when Glen Mauldin rolled on the backstretch. John Walters slammed into the overturned car. In rapid order Tom Reuss collided with Walters' rear bumper and finally Waukegan's only regular woman contestant, Cora Morton, hit Reuss' car in a resounding crash.

Mrs. Morton was quite shaken-up and was rushed to St. Therese Hospital for a check-up. She was held over night for observation, but her injuries were definitely not of a serious nature.

Dave Fitzsimmons looked like a sure winner until he lost a wheel with two laps to go allowing Len Curtiss to claim another Hobby Stock feature win.

SUNDAY NIGHT ACTION

John Reimer looked like the champ of old Sunday night at the Waukegan Speedway as he bested Whitey Harris in the modified stock car feature. The race was Harris' fourth second without a feature win at Waukegan.

Reimer timed in only one-hundredth of a second slower than point leader Bill Bohn, who chalked up fast time. John streaked to a sizzling second in the fast heat, behind Roger Von Otto.

It took Reimer 21 laps to take over the feature and he held back the late challenges of Harris.

This win marked the second consecutive feature for Reimer who is definitely on the come-back trail at Waukegan. The popular Caledonia school teacher hopes to slice into the margin separating him from Otto, Harris and Bohn, the top three in points, with a big night in the midseason championship races next Sunday.

Len Curtiss won the main event for the hobby stock cars and moved into second in their point standings, right behind Jim Couch who did not compete.

Jim Bozeman won the consolation event for the modifieds beating Ken Monroe and Al Horton to the finish line. Bill Strom won the trophy dash.

Score Streaks To Speed Center Win

Don Score of West Allis scored a wide margin feature victory in modified stock car racing at the Lake Geneva Speed Center Saturday night as he scored his first feature win at the popular asphalt oval. A near record crowd was on hand to witness the 27 modifieds, 28 late model stocks and 37 spectator stocks.

There were numerous restarts as the anxious drivers tried to make up for the night of racing missed when the Thursday night speed heats were rained out at the Speed Center.

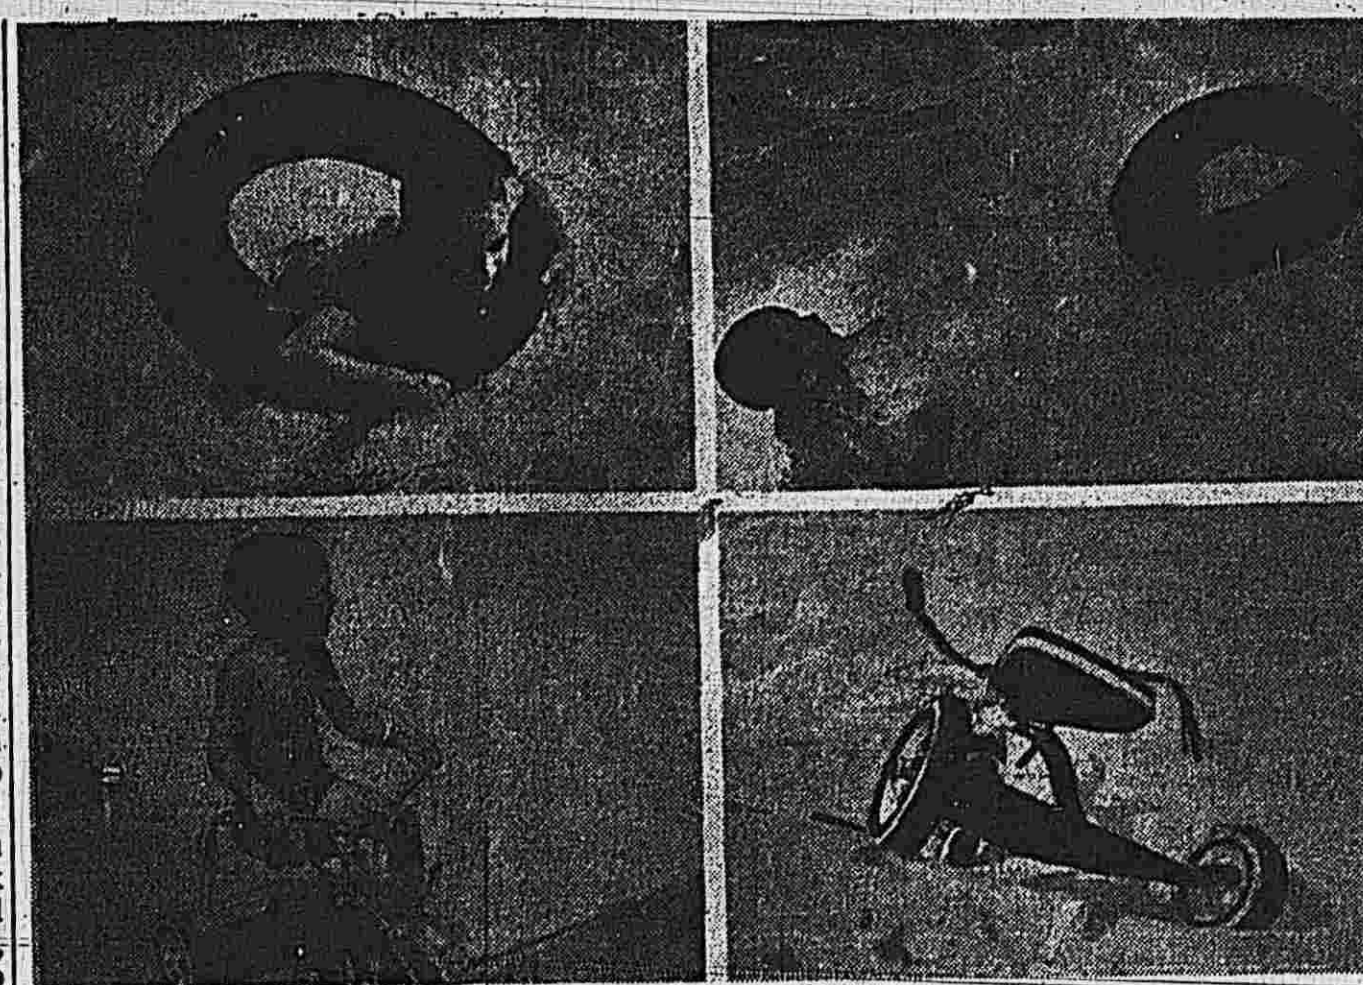

Ken Hanson of Trevor started off the feature in the lead and at the end of the 10th lap, it looked like he might be the winner, but on the next lap, Score went to the outside and passed Lauren Lawrence to take second and then got by Hanson on the start of the 11th lap.

Last week's feature race winner on both the Thursday and Saturday night of racing, Claude Potter, moved up to the second spot before his Ford engine broke a connecting rod putting an interruption to Potter's drive toward the top in point standings. He is currently in 4th position and very close to third place held by Duane Harris. However, Harris' second place finish will give him considerable breathing room before he worries about Potter becoming third.

Bill Bohn set fast time in qualifying averaging 60.03 MPH and wound up third in the feature. Ron Bergsma's fourth place finish over Roger Otto was his best place in a feature race so far this year.

In a surprise to even the driver, Don Kettle won the semi-feature as the two leading cars hit and spun out on the last lap.

Saturday night, August 12, has been set as the midseason championship race at the Speed Center. It will be a 50 lap feature. A ladies' Powder Puff Derby will also highlight the mid-season night.

OVER THEIR HEADS—Here are two examples of how children can become home pool accident victims if basic safety rules are ignored. Top left, young, non-swimmer relies on inner tube to keep him afloat in deep water. He's over his head in trouble when tube suddenly deflates; top right, After riding tricycle through unlocked pool gate, youngster enjoys poolside ride alone, bottom left, Partially submerged trike, bottom right, is mute reminder of tragedy that can strike when children are in pool area without close supervision.

Home Pools Threaten Summer Swimmers

Some 200 persons will drown this summer in home swimming pools.

Most of the victims will be children.

Most will die needlessly. The home pool has no waves, tides, or motorboats to worry about. Yet, despite certain safety advantages over the lake or shore, pools too often are the sites of unnecessary accidents.

A two-year-old boy was riding his tricycle in the backyard as his mother watched him from the living room window. Her attention was diverted by a telephone call. While she talked "for two or three minutes" her son rode his shiny red bicycle into the family's swimming pool and drowned.

This tragedy occurred because the boy's family violated this first two rules on this list of 10 "musts" for home pool safety:

1. In-ground pools should be fenced by high verticle wooden slabs with pointed tops or chain link fences with inwardly slanted tops of some sharp material such as barbed wire. Gates to permanent above-ground pools should be kept locked and ladders to plastic above ground should be removed when pools are not in use.
2. Watch children closely. Lack of supervision is the largest single cause of toddlers' drownings. An occasional glance from a house window is not enough. You must be outside with your child.
3. Under no circumstances should a child who cannot swim be allowed to use inflated toys. Such playthings, are not lifesavers, but potential killers. They may tempt young swimmers to try feats beyond their ability.
4. Your pool skimmer can be used to fish drowning swimmers out of the pool. Keep it handy at all times, along with a complete first aid kit.

Post safety rules, emergency procedures, and first aid instructions on permanent signs near the pool.

Keep emergency telephone numbers next to the phone. 6. Bottles, glassware, food, and barbecue equipment should be kept away from poolside — and barefoot swimmers.

7. Construct poolside pavements of roughly textured cement or use an abrasive paint to prevent slippery surfaces.

8. Mark the depth of in-ground pools with permanent paint and divide shallow and deep sections with buoy lines. 9. Be sure the water is deep enough for the height of your diving board. Depth must be a minimum of eight feet for a "low board." For boards 10-16 feet high, the water depth should equal the height of the board.

10. Allow only a professional electrician to install and repair wiring, pumps, and lighting fixtures. Keep portable electric equipment 10 feet from the pool to reduce the danger of shock.

ANTIOCH SWIMMING TEAM

By Ron Hellstern

Wednesday night the Antioch swimmers traveled to Zion for their fourth meet of the season. The results of the meet were not available at press time.

The season is coming to its end quickly as there are only three meets left: August 8 — Zion, here; August 12 — Libertyville there; and August 18 — Kenosha here. Other events are planned for the team, but no specific dates have been determined yet. These include an intrasquad meet, a picnic, a swimming party and an awards ceremony for outstanding swimmers.

SWIMMERS OF THE WEEK Barbara Dodd is an 11 year old from Antioch. Because of A.A.U. rules she generally has to compete against swimmers a year older than herself. Barb has done exceptionally well this year in the practice workouts as well as the meets. She usually practices with older swimmers to improve herself.

Barb swam in the Chicago Tribune meet and did a fine job for herself and Antioch against the older girls. She is part of Antioch's undefeated freestyle relay team and is looking forward to the coming meets.

John Wojtech is a 13 year old from Antioch. He, too, swam in the Chicago meet in the boys' 14 and under 100 yard freestyle and took a close second place.

The A.A.U. age groups are every two years from 10, 12, 14 and 16 under so John, like Barb, had a slight age handicap. At Antioch it's a different story. John holds all the 14 and under Team records in all the 14 and under Team records in all the different strokes. He is the anchor man on the undefeated boys' freestyle relay team. He has been swimming for Antioch for 3 years and has established 7 records which still exist. Hopefully, John will continue his competitive swimming for us for at least 3 more years.

Rifles Vs. Raiders In First Game

Ready or not, the Lake County Rifles and the Racine Raiders clash head on this Saturday, August 5th, at 6:00 p.m. on Mundelein High School's football field.

Plans Foretell Forest Future

"Most of the trees needed by the year 2000 are already in the ground or will be planted by man and nature within the next few years," an Illinois lumberman said.

"Reliable projections indicate an increase in demand for all forest products of about 80 percent by the turn of the century," Howard W. Fox, Sinnissippi Forest and chairman of the Illinois Forest Industries Committee, Oregon, said.

Illinois and the nation's commercial forest land are fully capable of producing substantially more than the projected growth if current levels of forest management could be applied to all timber holdings.

"This involves better communications, education and motivation," the industry spokesman added. "Additional acreage of poorly stocked and nonstocked land should be planted to trees and present stands should be given the best of care."

The multiple-use principle of forest management — accommodating a maximum of compatible uses with the highest single potential use of the land must be understood and practiced by the landowners — farmers, doctors, lawyers, teachers, and other city laymen who own the majority of the state's four million acres of commercial timber.

What we plan for today will be our resources tomorrow. In 1952 we started producing more than we were cutting. This could only happen when private landowners through the help of industry and government foresters started managing their timberland for optimum production.

"Adoption of tree farming principles is the answer," Fox concluded.

The two southern division representatives of the Central States football league will meet in a controlled scrimmage. This will give Rifle and Raider coaches, Gene Cichowski and Harry Gilbert, a last minute look before making their final cuts for the year.

Both clubs have been working in camp for five weeks and fans can expect to see plenty of roughhouse contact between the two rivals. "The Rifles will be boasting the league's MVP in Lew Flinn, a quarterback who led them to the league title last year. Flinn will be backed by All-American Tom Beck, Flinn's successor at Northern Illinois university.

The Lake Countians will display their famed receiver corps of Angelo Dabiero, Warren Nicholas, John Patterson and two newcomers, Dave Crowell of Lawrence College and Waukegan High great former Wisconsin Badger captain, Ron Leafblad.

The league's leading rusher, Billy Bodle, and backfield mates Kenny Johnson, Mark Metcalf and rookie Maurice Guins should provide plenty of punch in the CSFL champs' ground attack.

The defensive front four for the Rifles averages 260 lbs. They are led by Joe Smith and Wylie Smith with two massive newcomers, Jon Larson and Denny Dunn, 305 and 280 lbs. respectively. The public is invited. Tickets will be available at the gate.

Post Office Thefts Bring Stiff Prison Sentences

Robbing the United States mail may be a one-way ticket to a long prison term, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said today.

Mr. O'Brien noted that heavy prison sentences have been handed out lately to criminals who have been found guilty of post office robberies or burglaries.

"These heavy sentences indicate that the judiciary considers mail inviolate," the Postmaster General said. "Sentences of up to 35 years show no tolerance for postal crimes."

The 35 year sentence was given in March to Billy Joe Crabb, alleged leader of a gang of Florida burglars who committed a string of burglaries, including several post offices.

On April 24, Robert Lee Stephens was sentenced to 15 years for post office burglaries in West Virginia and passing money orders stolen from those offices. Stephens' companions, Robert Thomas Coleman and Philip Fenton—Hudnall, received sentences of seven and five years respectively.

The burglary of the Cove, Ark., Post Office brought prison sentences last October to Raymond L. Ridgeway and Daniel W. Spencer. Ridgeway got five years, while Spencer ended up with a total of 21 years for that burglary plus five years for a store burglary in another city.

The mandatory 25 year sentence for armed robbery of a post office went to Burnell Robinson on April 20 and to George Bruton and William James Evans last July. Robinson held up a postal unit at Joliet. Bruton and Evans held up a St. Louis installation. For robbing the Newington, Va., Post Office, Johnnie Clarence Rogers got a 20 year sentence on April 25.

The attempted armed hold-up of a mail truck operating between Gainesville, and Orlando, Florida, took 25 years out of the future of Ronald Cowman and 10 year from Murray Wilson, Jr. Bowman sentenced on April 12.

Wilson on March 21.

On June 5, the last of four youths was sentenced at St. Louis, Mo., for the February holdup of a special delivery messenger. One of the youths got seven years in the custody of the state of Missouri; the other three got five years each.

Loot from a post office burglary can also bring long terms. James Corbett Churder was sentenced to eight years in prison after being found guilty on Jan. 10 of concealing and retaining postal money orders taken from several Missouri post offices. Leonard Aron, St. Louis stamp coin dealer, has two 10 year concurrent terms for possession of U. S. savings stamps taken in a post office burglary.

Stealing from a letter box may decide one's future for a long while. On Jan. 27, Harvey Allen Dart was given 10 years in prison for letter box thefts in Jacksonville, Florida. Indictments for letter box thefts in two other states are pending.

EMERGENCY VEHICLE HAS RIGHT OF WAY

An emergency vehicle approaching always should receive the right of way. When a driver becomes aware such a vehicle is approaching, he should pull over to the curb and come to a complete stop. If there is no room along the curb, the motorist should pull as close to the right side of the road as possible.

McClory Supports Percy's Housing Bill

Congressman Robert McClory (R-Ill.), in a statement presented recently to the Senate Subcommittee on Housing and Urban Affairs, declared that the Percy Home Ownership Plan...

"would constitute a progressive step in the long and complex task of revitalizing the cities of America."

Congressman McClory further commented: "Both the philosophy and the mechanics of S.1592 (the Percy bill) appear to provide a program which would begin filling the gap between those who are now served through conventional FHA-financed housing and those who are not served at all, or who are virtually committed to poverty by occupancy of a public housing unit."

He stated that "...it would serve to excite the hopes and initiative of our disadvantaged citizens—to give them a chance to acquire the most important possession which can come into the life of an American family—a home of their own."

The Congressman also pointed out that "...the Percy measure would involve the private economy..." and "...our great and resourceful private enterprise system which has carried our nation to heights of material success never before attained by mankind."

The Percy bill as well as other later related measures have been the subject of extensive hearings by the Senate Subcommittee by numerous political scientists, governmental officials, and private citizens outlining their proposals for improving the quality of life in the American city.

A related measure proposed by New York Senator Robert F. Kennedy advances a plan for rental housing. Such a plan is viewed by some as competitive, and by others as complementary to the Percy proposal.

All 36 Republican Members of the Senate have joined as sponsors of the Percy Home Ownership Bill. Congressman McClory is one of more than 100 sponsors of the measure in the House of Representatives.

Public Employee Need Not Sign

A person seeking public employment cannot be denied that employment solely because he belongs to certain organizations, according to a recent ruling of the United States Supreme Court.

In a case involving a public school teacher, the Court held invalid an Arizona law that required applicants for public office to sign a so-called loyalty oath in which they disclaimed membership in the Communist Party or similar organizations.

The Supreme Court ruled that simple association with an organization does not of itself indicate sympathy with illegal purposes of the organization, such as advocating the violent overthrow of the United States Government. The prosecution must show his actual intent toward an illegal purpose. Guilt by association is not enough to disqualify the person from public office, the Court said.

Illinois has a law similar to that of Arizona. The Illinois statute requires a public employee or prospective public employee to sign an oath declaring that he is not knowingly a member of or knowingly affiliated with any organization which advocates violent overthrow of the constitutional government of the United States or the State of Illinois.

In 1957, the Illinois Supreme Court held that the Illinois law also applied to school teachers, as well as state employees or state officials. The decision implied that a school district is a political subdivision of the state, since school district boundaries may overlap municipal boundaries.

In a decision similar to that of the U.S. Supreme Court, a three-judge federal panel in Los Angeles recently held unconstitutional a loyalty oath required of Medicare applicants. The oath required the applicant to state whether he belonged to any one of eight Communist groups registered under the Internal Security Act of 1950.

Barring a successful appeal, the Social Security Administration must cross out the loyalty question on Medicare application forms.

Garden Club Closes Summer Meetings

The Garden Club of Illinois will close its series of summer meetings Monday, August 14, at Chateau Louise, on Route 31, south of Dundee.

The Chateau overlooks the Fox River valley in one of the wooded, hilly sections. The club serving as hostesses for the day selected it as an ideal place for the third and final state meeting.

"Patterns in Flowers" will be presented by Edward Sevik and Alec Alexander, two young men experts in flower arranging.

Reservations must be made by August 4 with Mrs. Robert Stettner, 350 Wing Park, Elgin.

Cocktails from 11:30 to 12:30 will be followed with a luncheon. A meeting of the board of directors will be held at 10 o'clock.

Designed originally for Expo '67 and created by the U. S. Lake Survey District Office of the Army Corps of Engineers, a basic relief exhibit vividly demonstrating the ocean-like characteristics of the 95,000 square miles of inland seas that make up our far-stretching Great Lakes Basin, has gone on display at Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry.

To remain on view through August 20, it is described by the Corps of Engineers as one of the finest displays of its type ever made and the only one of the Great Lakes and their tributary areas.

The area covered extends from Lake Champlain and the Upper Hudson in the east to the farthestmost tip of Lake Superior, and from the Minnesota border lakes to below the northerly borders of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

With the St. Lawrence River and two other avenues to the ocean (the New York Barge Canal and the Illinois-Mississippi river links), the waterway network involved is, in the words of the U. S. Lake Survey, "a natural transportation highway providing access to a region notable for the magnitude of its natural and industrial resources."

Both light and color are used to stress the exhibit's features.

Buttons turn on lights which show major harbors, locks, canals, dams and other control structures and locations of engineering projects.

The varying depths of the many water areas are indicated by colors ranging from the pale hyacinth blue of shallow Lake Erie to the mid-night blue of the cavernous "deeps" of the larger lakes.

THE ANTIOCH NEWS 9 THURSDAY, AUGUST 3, 1967

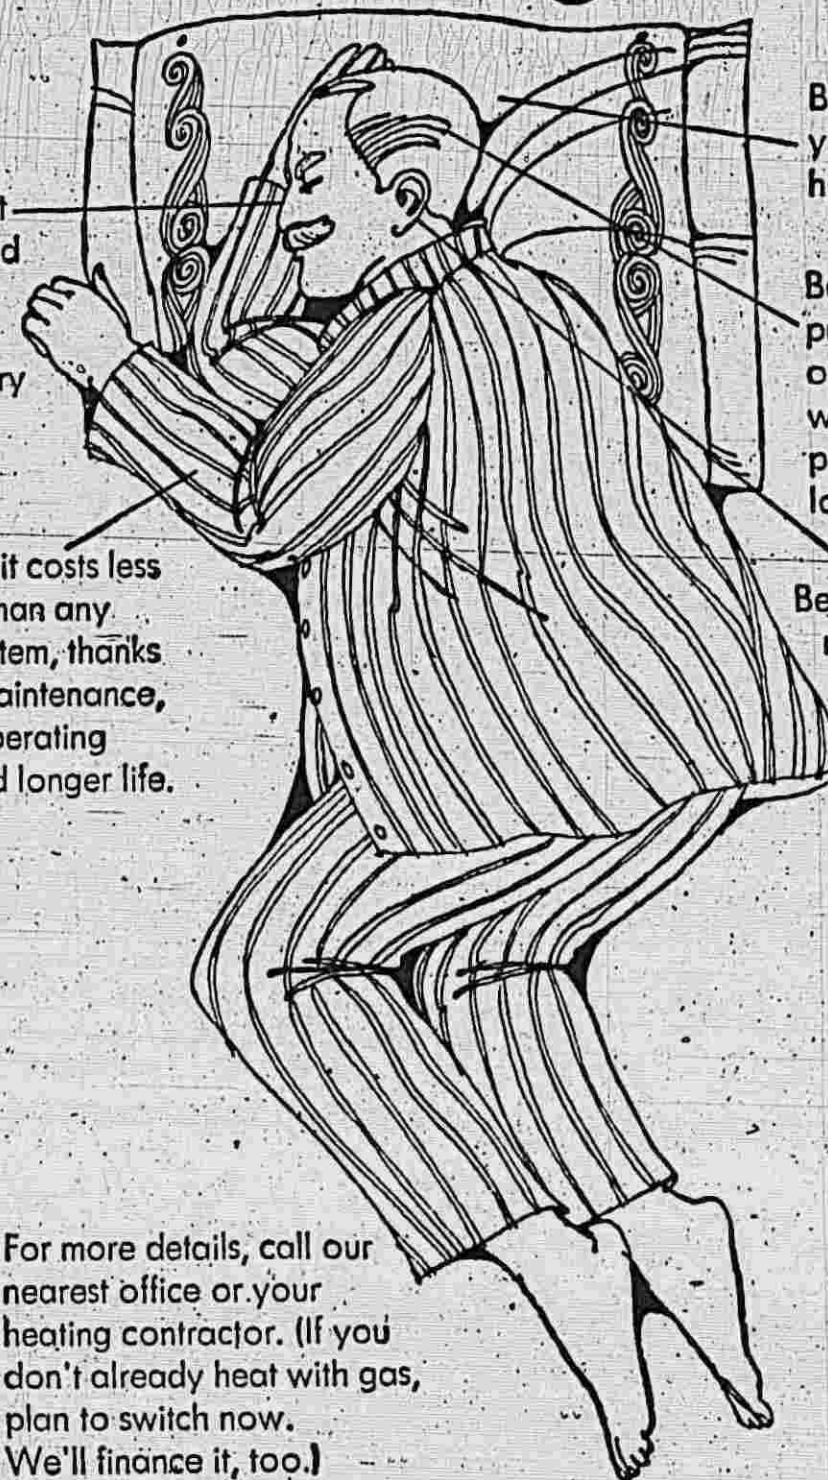

Indicated as the deepest sounding yet taken is the 1,333-foot underwater level found in Lake Superior near Munising, Michigan.

The fumes you see coming out of the exhaust of the car in front of you do not just smell bad. They are also one important part of the most serious modern problem. Dirty air or technically, this problem is called air pollution.

Gas air conditioning makes sense.

Because it filters out allergenic pollen and dust. Just clean, cool, dehumidified air circulates in every room.

Because it costs less to own than any other system, thanks to less maintenance, lower operating costs and longer life.

Because it lets you sleep when it's hot and muggy.

Because it gives you peace of mind with our 5-year free service warranty, 5-year payment plan, and low summer rates.

Because it shuts out noise—lets you keep doors and windows closed.

For more details, call our nearest office or your heating contractor. (If you don't already heat with gas, plan to switch now. We'll finance it, too.)

Auto Imports May Set New Records In 1967

"Import sales in the United States will reach an all-time high in 1967, predicts Toyota Motor Distributors' President Shoji Hattori.

Hattori bases his opinion upon import registrations for the first five months of 1967, which totalled 265,842—up 14.8 per cent over the previous record year of 1966 for the same period.

Volkswagen continues to enjoy the lion's share of the import market, Hattori says, and reports that the West German manufacturer's sales are running ahead of its all time 1966 record year.

The veteran Japanese automotive executive predicts that import sales in the United States this year will "easily" top 700,000 and could reach 750,000.

Hattori attributes the remarkable gains by the imports to the American public's demand for smaller and more economical "second" and "third" cars.

"Detroit has left a void in this market," he says, "and foreign car manufacturers are taking advantage of this oversight to engineer smaller cars that are powerful enough to satisfy the American buyers in performance, yet deliver the economy of operation that has become traditional with import cars."

Although Toyota has made the deepest and fastest penetration of the import market in this country since the famous Volkswagen impact of the late 1950's, Hattori points out that Opel, Datsun, Volvo and Mercedes-Benz are also enjoying record sales this year.

"Newer and safer models are being introduced by many of the leading foreign car makers," Hattori reports.

Highways To Have New Fair Exhibit

The Illinois Division of Highways will have a new exhibit at the Lake County Fair in Grayslake from July 26 to July 30. The exhibit depicts the construction of interstate highways from the time that right-of-way is acquired until the final landscaping and erecting of signs is completed.

The cost of the various phases for urban and rural areas is shown as a part of each segment of the exhibit. Local representatives of the Illinois Division of Highways will be present at the display and the new 1967 Official Highway Map will be available free of charge to fair visitors.

we care

why should we guarantee other people's products?

If we didn't, we couldn't honestly say WE CARE. Could we?

You see, before any product is allowed on our shelves, we've checked it out pretty carefully.

We've checked the company that makes it.

We've checked to be sure the product is all the package says it is.

If you ever buy anything at A&P you're not happy with, you don't have to bother to write a letter to the company that made it. Just tell your A&P store manager. He'll give you your money back. We'll get in touch with that company for you...and for us.

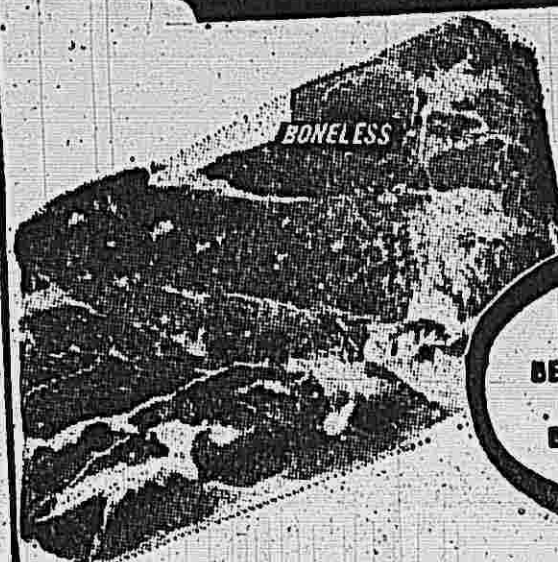

That's A&P's guarantee.

No matter who makes it, if A&P sells it, A&P guarantees it.

Not every store can offer you a guarantee like that. A&P can...and does. Shouldn't A&P be your store?
